

Environmental Humanities Graduate Student Community Engagement Funding Application

Thanks to generous funding from the Mellon Foundation, EH students can apply for funding to support community-based research/creative scholarship projects/events in collaboration with an established community partner.

- Submit application for funding prior to engaging in any of the work described in the application.
- Students are eligible for up to $500 to fund allowable expenses to support community engagement work
- Students are eligible for one award/year; year begins July 1 and ends June 30.
- Completion of work that takes place after graduation during the thesis submission process may be eligible.
